

The Service of Hampton Shops

TO THOSE of discriminating taste who enjoy planning and replenishing the interiors of their homes to reflect their own personalities, the Hampton Shops now offer the largest collection of hand-made furniture and accessories in America. Our connoisseurs are constantly gathering for your homes fine antiques from Italy, France and England, to supplement the beautiful hand-made reproductions and adaptations constructed in our own works. These are arranged in delightfully livable rooms which suggest harmonious color schemes, window treatments and unusual arrangements.

You will find here a series of interesting bedrooms, varying from the daintiest of French painted styles for the debutante to the dignified simplicity of carved oak or inlaid mahogany for a man's room. There are also many dining rooms, each one distinctive, and its furniture as worthy to become heirlooms of the future as were those pieces constructed by Chippendale or Hepplewhite from which some of these are reproduced. Living room and library suggestions are here, boudoirs, halls and reception rooms in every worthy phase of decoration, and all are ready for delivery.

To the many who prefer to leave the planning and carrying out of the interiors of their homes in competent hands, the services of our staff of skilled designers and decorators are available, for, trained by long years of study, travel and experience, they are equipped to develop interior schemes in accordance with any architectural setting.

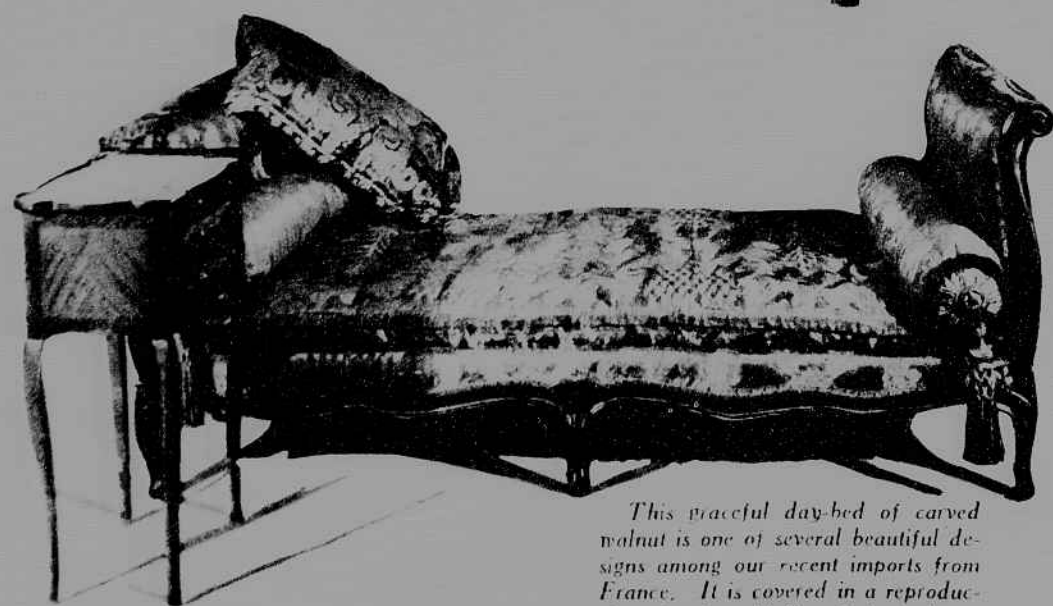

Each piece is plainly priced. Each price is as low as consistent with the fine hand-carving and decorating, with the conscientious construction of the hidden details of laminating and combining woods to withstand our peculiar climatic conditions and with the exclusive character of Hampton designs, which are not procurable elsewhere or duplicated in machine-made furniture. Hampton productions are permanent investments, for these designs have proved themselves above the changing whims of fads and fashions.

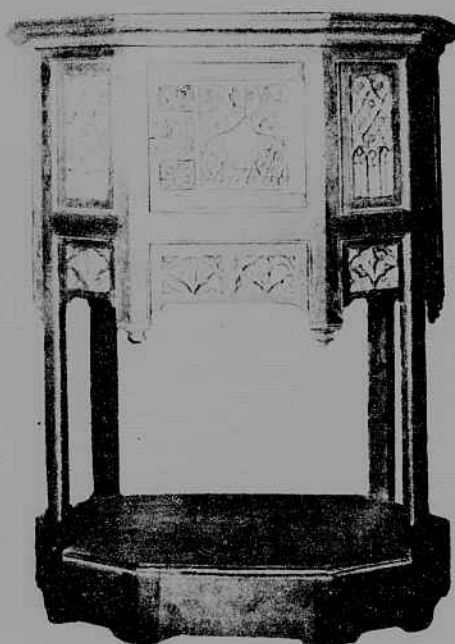

This illustrates a delightful interior planned by the Hampton Designers, its carved paneled walls accented by paintings after Watteau, forming a harmonious background for the chaise-longue with its delicate carving and gray painted chairs with their needlework coverings.

One of a pair of exceptionally beautiful imported sconces of carved and gilded wood.

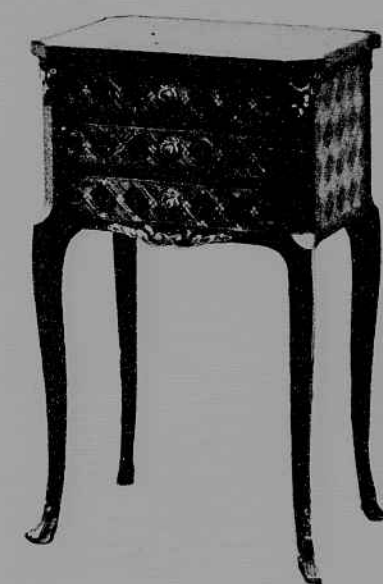

This graceful day-bed of carved walnut is one of several beautiful designs among our recent imports from France. It is covered in a reproduction of a fine old French damask.

This beautiful Gothic cabinet of hand-carved oak is an example of several recently received from our collector in Italy. It may be adapted to enclose a fine instrument for reproducing music in a home of today, or placed in a formal hall.

A grouping for the library or living room shows a beautiful old walnut bookcase with glass paneled doors and carved feet. The luxurious English club chair is one of a wide variety of these imported chairs and couches which are ready to cover in harmony with the color scheme of your room.

One of our many exquisite pieces of marqueterie with ormolu mounts recently arrived from France. The collection includes small desks, table desks, commodes and cabinets, as well as little tables.

The number of complete dining rooms at the Hampton Shops offers scope for completing any architectural setting from the heavy priority tables and chairs of carved oak of Elizabethan days to painted furniture for a little breakfast room; but especially interesting for their beauty of construction, carving and inlay are the dining rooms in William and Mary, Queen Anne and the Georgian styles, of which this is suggestive.

Whether your need is for only a single piece—perhaps a luxurious chair, an unusual personal desk, a gift of lasting charm—or for the complete furnishings of several rooms, you will find here timely suggestions, while the assistance of our experienced decorators is at your command whenever you may visit our ever changing exhibit.
